SUMMARY OF CHANGES

This revision reflects AFRC's status as a major command (MAJCOM) and a reserve component of the United States Air Force (USAF) that organizes, trains and equips combat ready forces.

1. Mission. The mission of AFRC is to provide Citizen Airmen to defend the United States and to protect its interests through air, space and cyberspace power. This organization is a MAJCOM of the USAF.

2. Command.

2.1. The AFRC Commander:

2.1.1. Is the Chief of Air Force Reserve.

2.1.2. Commands the Air Force Reserve Command, composed of three numbered Air Forces: Fourth Air Force, Tenth Air Force and Twenty-Second Air Force, and the Air

Reserve Personnel Center (ARPC), the Air Force Reserve Command Force Generation Center, and the Air Force Reserve Command Recruiting Service.

2.2. The Air Force Reserve is a reserve component of the Air Force IAW 10 USC § 10101. AFRC must be assigned all forces of the Air Force Reserve in the continental United States IAW 10 USC § 10174 with the exception of special operations forces which are assigned to AFRC by service policy.

3. Responsibilities. The AFRC Commander:

3.1. Organizes, trains, and equips combat-ready forces.

3.2. Presents combat ready forces that can operate as seamless members of the Expeditionary Air, Space and Cyber Force.

3.3. Coordinates and maintains liaison with HQ USAF and other Air Force MAJCOMs to ensure reserve training standards and qualification levels meet mobilization requirements.

3.4. Establishes necessary priorities to ensure accelerated training programs and quotas for reserve individuals, especially in areas of skill shortages, in support of Air Force requirements.

3.5. Directs operation of Headquarters AFRC, the three numbered Air Forces and ARPC and provides all required MAJCOM-level support for all AFRC units and individuals.

3.6. Organizes additional units to include integrating with Regular Component and Air National Guard units, and trains personnel to achieve and maintain readiness as required by the AF.

3.7. Maintains overall supervision of AFR matters supporting AF war plans, programming documents, and mobilization actions.

3.8. Ensures that AFRC units and individuals ordered to active duty during a call-up or mobilization are provided necessary supervision, training, family readiness and administrative support from existing resources.

3.9. Assists Regular Component forces by performing peacetime missions as an adjunct to, or corollary of, training, and assumes operations and missions assigned in whole or in part to the Reserve Component, and supports operations or missions performed by units that are part of active and classic associations.

3.10. Exercises administrative control (ADCON) over all AFR forces under his command, except for forces attached to the commander, Air Force forces (COMAFFOR); the COMAFFOR has specified ADCON over attached forces.

3.11. Carries out wartime and contingency civil defense and disaster preparedness responsibilities.

4. Direct Communication. HQ AFRC is authorized direct communications with MAJCOMs, field operating agencies, direct reporting units, specified military departments, federal and Department of Defense agencies, and individual members on matters related to unit mission accomplishment. All communication with AFRC units by non-AFRC agencies is through HQ AFRC.
