Inspector General Complaints Resolution Program

The primary charge of the Inspector General (IG) is to sustain a credible Air Force Inspector General system by ensuring the existence of responsive complaint investigations and fraud, waste and abuse programs characterized by objectivity, integrity and impartiality. They serve as a means of redress where none exists and to ensure the established means of redress are functioning properly. (IAW AFPD 90-3 and AFI 90-301)

There are certain responsibilities expected of an individual bringing a concern to the Inspector General:

1. Give the chain of command and/or established agency the first opportunity to address your complaint. This is the quickest and most efficient way to resolve any issue.
2. If these avenues do not resolve the concern, use the IG system for assistance. However, dissatisfaction with an answer from the chain of command or agency is not a basis for an IG complaint. If you are not sure whether your concern is a reportable matter, contact the IG office for guidance.
3. The Inspector General resolves complaints using facts; providing accurate and complete information will expedite resolution of your concern.

A military member has the right to communicate with members of Congress and the Inspector General without fear of reprisal. If your access has been restricted or you suspect actions have been taken against you because of your communication, contact the 452d Air Mobility Wing Inspector General immediately.
